

What else can (should) you do to protect your family, your friends and co-workers?

Employers:

- Protect your employees' safety and feelings of well-being with better access to 9-1-1 services.
- Educate your employees on how to dial 9-1-1 from your phone system.
- Ensure employees know what extra digit (if any) to dial to access 9-1-1.
- See www.mn-mesb.org.org for more information and sample materials.
- Better yet, invest in your employees' safety by upgrading your telephone system to provide their precise location to 9-1-1. This upgrade to your MLTS will provide individual phone numbers with the precise location (room, unit, office, floor, address, etc.) to 9-1-1.

Employees:

- Spread the word about this MLTS limitation to those you know and love.
- Contact your building telecommunication manager or your employer to determine if the phone system provides precise locations to 9-1-1 centers.
- Ensure that all users of the system are informed by management on how to call 9-1-1.